

 Songbirds

Phonics

The Wrong Kind of Knight

Julia
Donaldson

Oxford
Reading
Tree

wr

write

wrong

kn

knight

knit

knock

knees

kn

knocking

knitting

knitted

knickers

Other words

ride
fight
night
cried

Other words

kind

knight

fighting

Other words

mind

tiny

delight

Other words

read

Kareem

hurry

freezing

Tricky Words

my

were

very

said

was

Tricky Words

don't

there

one

like

liked

Tricky Words

like

he

some

 Songbirds

Phonics

The Wrong Kind of Knight

Julia
Donaldson

Oxford
Reading
Tree

Nasim was a knight.

But he didn't like to ride and he didn't like to fight.

Nasim liked to read and write, and he liked to knit.

One night, there was a knock at the door.

"I need you to fight a dragon!"
cried King Kareem.

"But I'm the wrong kind of knight!"
said Nasim. "I don't like fighting!"

"Never mind!" cried the king.
"Hurry up!"

"The dragon is in my bed!" said the king.

Nasim's knees were knocking.
He lifted the blanket and saw ...

a tiny dragon.

The dragon's knees were knocking too.
"I'm freezing," he said.

"Fight him!" cried the king.

"No. I'm the wrong kind of knight," said Nasim, and he began to knit.

Nasim was very quick at knitting.
He knitted a vest, some socks and some long knickers.

The dragon was delighted.
"Thank you!" he said, and off
he went.

"I think you were the right kind of knight!" said the king.

